You don't apply. You get chosen.

Public builder signals in, ranked ventures out

One warehouse · one person_id · every score traceable to a source

WHY IT HOLDS UP

Merges are reversible — a golden person is just the set of active link rows over immutable source records. Undoing a bad merge is a status flip, not a rewrite.

Nothing auto-merges below 0.90, and a name alone is never enough. Claude adjudicates the 0.60–0.90 band; below that a human does.

A category with no evidence redistributes its weight rather than inventing an average. Confidence is stored apart from score.

Public sources only · provenance on every fact · erasure enforced in the write path

Embeddings judge topic, not rank — prestige and scale live in the feature layer
